

Rob Thornley (1/70), buried 17th December 2007

Rob was involved with the Nicholson Museum at Sydney University where he had been drawn by his interest in archaeology. He had left the army to pursue his great love of archaeology which had been fuelled by his time in the Middle East serving in Southern Lebanon and the Golan heights with UN peacekeepers.